The musical score consists of six staves of music for voice and piano. The vocal part is in soprano range, and the piano part includes bass notes. The score is in common time, with key signatures of A major (no sharps or flats) throughout. The lyrics are integrated into the music, with each line of text aligned with its corresponding piano and vocal measures. Chords are indicated below the staff, often with multiple options separated by slashes (e.g., F#m, D, A/C#, E/H). Measure numbers are present at the beginning of several staves.
